Kari Donovan learned the following from Miriam Chu, Vice President of the NCGOP:

The first thing you need to do to become a precinct chair or a precinct captain is to locate your county convention, call the point of contact there and find out about registering to attend the precinct meeting. See: <https://www.nc.gop/conventions>

The meetings start on Feb 23 and then go into the first week of March. The next scheduled opportunity to get involved is 2023.

Voters should be able to attend as a registered Independent but get permission first. Registered Republicans should not have a problem attending the meetings.

People begin the process of becoming involved in their precinct at the County Convention meetings. The precinct is the basic political operating unit.

In North Carolina, a "Committeeman or woman" is an executive-level position – the precinct chairs are at the precinct level – Precinct Chairpeople.

Many Counties in NC have no precinct chairperson at all, so Miriam says the NCGOP will be happy to get people signed up. If anyone has anyone problems, they should contact her at the NCGOP headquarters: info@ncgop.org 919-828-6423
